MORGAN CRYER MOBLEY

Morgan Cryer Mobley was born June 5, 1831 in Caddo Township, Clark County, Arkansas. His father David Mobley came to Arkansas a single man from Tennessee following military service during the War of 1812. He was accompanied by an uncle named John Mobley according to family history. Tradition also says they parted at Arkansas Post and David Mobley did not hear from his uncle again. He settled in Clark County and in 1817 married Barbara Cryer the daughter of Morgan Cryer. In 1836 David Mobley settled between Antoine and present day Delight, Arkansas in Pike County. He died in 1859. The children of David Mobley and Barbara Cryer included William, David, Morgan Cryer, Sarah Ann, Julia Ann, Leana, Ann Mariah and at least three others who died in childhood or infancy.

Morgan Cryer Mobley married Mary Jane Kirby about 1857 in Pike County, Arkansas. She was the daughter of Joseph Lytal Kirby and Rachel Patterson Walton who arrived in Pike County, Arkansas in late 1850. The Kirbys had nine children. They were William Lytal, Joseph Fosgate, John C., Mary Jane, James Walton, Joshua Marshal, Elizabeth E., Caroline, and Idella C.

Morgan Cryer Mobley and Mary Jane Kirby had one child a daughter named Myra Alice Mobley before his death on April 16, 1859. He was buried in the Old Lamb Cemetery between Antoine and Delight. Mary Jane (Kirby) Mobley became the second wife of William Harrison Preston of Murfreesboro.

Maj. Wm. H. Preston

The many friends and acquaintances of Maj. Wm. H. Preston of Murfreesboro, Pike Co., will be shocked to learn that he is no more, and that he died by his own hand. On the evening of the 7th inst. (January 7, 1873) we learn that he went into a room to change clothes and remained so long that his wife became uneasy about him and went into the room to ascertain the cause, when to her horror, she found him on the bed and four empty one ounce bottles labeled "Laudanum" sitting on a chair nearby. When his wife entered the room he pointed to the bottles and remarked that she could see what he had done for himself. A physician was immediately summoned, but Maj. Preston stoutly refused to take any antidote declaring it to be his full and unalterable determination to destroy his life. He died about six o'clock next morning (January 8, 1873).

Tuesday Night of Paralysis

J.H. Elam, one of the oldest and most respected citizens of this section of the state, died at his home near College Hill at 11 o'clock Tuesday night (January 5, 1926). Mr. Elam had not been in good health for some time but it was not thought dangerous as he was able to be up most of the time, but about a week ago he suffered a stroke of paralysis and continued to grow worse until his death. Mr. Elam was 72 years of age, and lived in this county for many years and has raised a large family of boys and girls, most of whom survive him. ### Mrs. Churly Meeks Died Sunday

Mrs. Churly Meeks aged 80 years and 15 days died at her home in Daisy at 9 o'clock Sunday evening the 17th (January 17, 1926), after a short illness. She was laid to rest in the Mt. Joy cemetery Monday, a large crowd of sorrowing relatives and friends paying their last and due respects. She is survived by one son, Joe B. Meeks, three grandchildren, five sisters, and one brother. The funeral services being conducted by Rev. Jeff Oneal, pastor of the Free Will Baptist church. Aunt Churby came to daisy many years ago with her parents. She kept the postoffice at Daisy for more than 30 years. She was known thruout (throughout) the county and was loved and honored by all for her deeds of goodness. She was a member of the South Methodist church and lived a true and devoted christian life. I have know her since my baby days and she has ever been mother like to me and I shall miss her gentle voice and kind helping hand. As I looked for the last time on the dear dead face of my beloved friend the thought came to me - how beautiful is the face of a saint - even after the stroke of grim death in its cold and solemn way has closed the eyes and stilled the voice forever, leaving only the moveless body of clay, yet how beautiful is the face of a saint, one who has tasted the sweetness of God's blessed rest, one who has lived with Heaven in view. - Gusta M. Harrison.

Mrs. W.O. Herndon of Conway, Ark. aged 36 years, died in a hospital in that city Monday morning after undergoing two major operations within three days. She had been in ill health for several years and for the past year had been under the personal care of the chief surgeon of this hospital making preparations for an operation but she failed to respond as she should and another operation was performed Sunday night in an effort to save her but it proved futile. Mrs. Herndon is well known in Pike county, where she was born and reared. She has lived at Kirby, Glenwood, and in this city, where she made a host of life-long friends. She was a good, true, Christian woman and to know her was to love and respect her. Her many friends here were deeply grieved to learn of her death, most of whom have tendered consoling words and messages of sympathy to her relatives. Her remains were interred in the cemetery at Conway Wednesday morning, the pastor of the First Presbyterian church, performing the last sad rites of the funeral ceremony amid a large congregation of sorrowing relatives and friends. The many beautiful flowers and telegrams of sympathy from friends were greatly appreciated by the family. She is survived by her husband W.O. ### Drank Tree Poison Instead Of Water

Chris Jackson, living on the Gilmer farm near Bills, is dead, due to drinking a fluid known as tree poison. The particulars relative to this occurrence as near as we can gather are, that last Sunday morning (May 16, 1926) about 11 o'clock Jackson and a near neighbor were walking through the bottoms near their homes when they came to a coal oil can suspended from the limb of a tree. It is said that Jackson complained of intense thirst for water about that time and taking down the can drank a portion of the fluid. Soon after he became sick and returned home. His condition grew gradually worse and a physician was called. He continued to grow worse, however, and died about 12 o'clock that night. The circumstances leading to his death appeared unnatural to some of the neighbors in that a man would drink contents from an unknown vessel to quench his thirst when it is claimed a stream of water ran near the tree on which the can was hanging. This fact was reported to the officers and we are told that an investigation is going to be held in order to ascertain more information if possible. The can of tree poison is said to have belonged to Bree Harrison, another farmer on the plantation, who had been using the fluid to kill trees Jackson was married and had several children.

RESETTING THE OLD LANDMARKS

A History of the Clark-Pike Missionary Baptist Association by Russell Pierce Baker (c) 1993

Part 2

From 1861 until 1865 the Civil War brought death, destruction, and chaos to most of western Arkansas. Both the Caddo River and Red River associations were prevented from meeting during at least part of the war. Pastors were killed or driven from their homes and many church members were scattered. By 1865 only Bethel Church near Glenwood was still holding regular worship services. However within a few years a remarkable change took place. 1867 saw the beginning of a three decade long surge of Baptist Church growth within this area. That year the Mount Pisgah Missionary Baptist Church was organized in southern Montgomery County east of Bethel. It and Bethel were the only churches to send messengers to the Caddo River Association in the fall of 1867.

The end of the year brought a large influx of new settlers into this part of Arkansas. They came from the older southern states to the east. This increase in population growth was one of the reasons that the number of Baptist churches increased slowly but steadily. About 1871 Elder Jim Copeland, an ordained Baptist minister from Dallas County, Arkansas, settled in Southern Pike County. Through his efforts Liberty Hill Missionary Baptist Church, south of Delight, was organized in 1872. About three years later, he helped organize a new church nearby. At first it was called Brocktown. Its name was later changed to Wolf Creek Church. About 1897 it became the Delight Missionary Baptist Church. It is now known as the First Baptist Church of Delight. Elder Copeland was also active in the political affairs of Pike County, representing it in the Arkansas General Assembly from 1884 until 1890.

Valley Grove Missionary Baptist Church, located at old Rock Creek, south of Glenwood, was organized in 1872 from members of Bethel Church who lived south of the Caddo River. Salem Church, now called Salem Landmark Missionary Baptist Church, west of Glenwood, was organized in 1878, as was the First Baptist Church at Murfreesboro. Over the next twenty years or so, a large number of new churches were organized in Clark, Montgomery, and Pike counties. Most of the churches in Clark County, as well as those in southern Pike County fellowshipped within the Red River Association. Those in Montgomery County and the northern part of Pike County cooperated with the Caddo River Association.

The conservative Baptist movement known as Landmarkism was the dominate influence within much of Arkansas' Baptist family for several decades after the Civil War. A reading of the records of the Caddo River Association during this period indicates that this group remained solidly within the Landmark camp. However, the Red River Association continued in its more liberal fashion. It usually gave support to the idea of a more centralized and powerful State and Southern Baptist Convention. In 1879 this association founded the Arkadelphia Baptist High School in hopes of influencing the Arkansas State Convention to locate its proposed new State Baptist College within its bounds. In 1886 Ouachita Baptist College was established in Arkadelphia, however, as the year passed, there grew up within this "convention supporting" body an ever increasing number of Landmark Baptist advocates, especially within the churches of western Clark County and southern Pike County.

The followers of Landmarkism place great stress upon the authority of the local church over that of any other organization such as a convention or association. Convention supporters, on the other hand, advocate a strong, centralized organization, that by its very nature, de-emphasizes the work of the individual congregation. The conflict between these two views of how Baptist were to work together was to be the source of much bitter confrontation, conflict and debate within Arkansas and much of the south during the last twenty years of the nineteenth century and beyond. The controversy came to centered around two basic issues: the growing centralization of power within State and National conventions and the increasingly liberal theology of many of the pro-convention clergymen, especially those being graduated from "eastern" Baptist colleges and seminaries.

As they years passed more and more of the pulpits of Arkansas' growing urban churches came to be filled by these liberal ministers. These men also took an increasingly active interest in the workings of the Arkansas State Convention. The State's many rural preachers, most of whom were self-taught men, worked on their farms six days a week to support their families and preached "half or quarter" time. However, most were conservatives in religion who supported the Landmark position. Men such as these saw within the growing power of the Convention system a great inequality. Large, wealthy city churches had an unfair advantage over smaller, rural churches. Under the Convention system, larger and wealthier congregations received additional "delegates" or messengers to a "convention" in addition to the traditional three that each church received. Thus, churches such as these were able to vote a larger number of messengers on important issues than other churches. Often these "extra" votes were crucial in deciding which faction would control a particular session or even an entire organization. This is why many smaller churches and their pastors feared being "controlled" by those who favored a convention. They preferred their local Baptist associations that operated on a policy of strict equality, with each congregation, regardless of factors such as size or financial status, having an equal voice and vote at each session.

Later when given a chance to organize their own State and National associations, Landmark Baptists modeled them after the local Baptist association, earning for themselves the name "church equality" Baptists. This big church-little church issue seems never to have been adequately understood by those who opposed the doctrine of Landmarkism.

In 1882 the Arkansas State Convention, led by a group of liberal, urban pastors and churches, began a program to oust the Landmarkers from power, and "systematize" the way the convention did business. The state goal of this policy was to cause the Baptist churches within the State to be more "regular" in their support of the Convention and its projects. This action placed the "church equality" question squarely before the Baptists of Arkansas. By 1890 an open struggle was in progress for control of the Arkansas State Convention. The Landmark forces were lead by Dr. William A. Clark, the long time editor of "The Arkansas Baptist" newspaper. Urged on by his editorials, Arkansas' Landmark Baptists brought this conflict to a head at Paragould in 1901, when they mounted a serious, but unsuccessful attempt to seize power within the Convention.

Although it was an early Landmark supporter, the Caddo River Association of this period showed little interest in the upcoming battle at the State Convention. However, the same can not be said of the Red River Association. After 1895, the issue of who would control the State Convention came to increasingly dominate its annual sessions. Though still a minority, the Pro-Landmark forces were increasing their influence each session. This was accelerated when Elder Jim Copeland, the pioneer Pike County preacher, emerged as a leader within the Association. Often he was elected moderator and was almost always selected to represent the Association at upcoming sessions of the State and Southern Baptist conventions. At Paragould he was the one who offered the key Landmark proposal that would have abolished the Convention's "liberal agenda" and returned it to its old Landmark's way of operation. His action set the stage for a debate that lasted from midday Saturday until the next Monday afternoon. When the final vote was counted, 148 of the delegates present supported Bro. Copeland's motion and 151 opposed it. The champions of centralization and a strong con-vention had won the day. Following this defeat, hundreds of Landmark churches across Arkansas voted to heed a call, "to elect messengers and meet somewhere and arrange a plan of work," com-pletely outside this kind of system. This meeting was held at Antioch Baptist Church in Little Rock on April 10, 1902 and resulted in the formation of the Arkansas State General Association. Later it became the State Association of Missionary Baptist Churches of Arkansas.

By the time for the fall meetings of local Baptist Associations across the State in 1902, there were two state wide organizations vying for the support of the churches. The "General Association" was new and untried. The State Convention, organized in 1848, could count on the traditional loyalties and support of many pastors and churches, even though they might consider themselves within the Landmark camp, theologically.

The only mention of the recent "division" among Arkansas Baptists found in the 1902 minutes of the Caddo River Association was a resolution offered by Bro. W.H. Anderson, the association's clerk, who was from Bethel Church near Glenwood. It voiced a very strong approval of Dr. W.A. Clark, Landmark leader and editor, because he was "sound in doctrine, scriptural in church policy, and in every way worthy of our support and patron-age ... He is a sound Landmark Baptist and is standing firm upon the practice and principals of the Baptist faith." However, in 1903 a resolution urging that the churches within the association "adopt plans and principles as set forth by the (State) General Association, and that (they) de-nounce the (convention) system (of doing work) as unscriptural," was defeated. Records of the 1904 session are unusually silent upon this question. Subsequent developments show that in many associations this silence often indicated that the churches were badly divided over this issue and that by common consent "the question" was not brought up.

However, among the churches of the Caddo River Association in Pike County, there was growing support for the organization of a new state-wide general association organized and operated along Landmark lines. In 1902 both the Caney Valley and the Mount Pleasant churches voiced their public backing for such a move. The district or "fifth" Sunday meeting, long a part of Baptist life in the South, became the vehicle for rallying the Pike County churches in this support. These meetings, held three times a year, were composed of messengers from all of the churches in the county regardless of their local associational affiliation.

Within a few weeks of the Paragould Convention, such a fifth Sunday meeting was held in Pike County. A general invitation was extended to any and all to attend and have a full discussion of the events that had just taken place and the pros and cons of the Landmark question. In April of 1902 the outcome of this meeting was published in the Arkansas Baptist. "We cannot co-operate" (with the State Convention) the messengers said, "with-out violating every law of conscience and ignoring the sovereignty and the independence of (our own) churches." The meeting then proceeded to endorse the formation of a new State association, provided that it operated in a "scriptural way." Thus the churches placed their emphasis upon the sovereignty of the local church. In 1905 after the formation of a separate Pike County Association drew most of the Landmark churches out of the Caddo River Association, that old body proceeded along "untrammelled in (its) plan (of) co-operation with the State (Convention and its) board of missions."

As the Baptists of Arkansas were getting ready for the fateful Paragould convention, it seemed that the churches of the Red River Association had abandoned their pro-convention stand and were moving toward the Landmark position. Bro. Copeland was still the undisputed leader of the association and most of the Pike County churches and many of those from western Clark County were openly advocating the Landmark cause. However, the convention forces had not been silenced. The churches near Arkadelphia and its Ouachita Baptist College, with a few exceptions such as Mount Bethel, were strong supporters of the Convention system. Most of Ouachita's teachers and professors were Baptist clergyman who held liberal, anti-landmark views and were avid supporters of the Convention system. Through their preaching efforts they controlled most of the Baptist pulpits within several hours ride of Arkadelphia. Therefore, it is not surprising that their churches would be just as active in their support of the work of the State Convention as were their pastors.

At its 1901 session, held a few weeks before the Paragould Convention, the Red River Association, unlike the Caddo River Association, faced the Landmark vs. Convention question squarely and debated it for a considerable time. The disposition of the messengers was evident from the start. Bro. Copeland was again elected moderator. Through him the Landmark faction was able to control the appointment of most of the members of the various committees that wrote the reports that would come before the body for action. In what would be a preview of many future battles and debates, the questions on everyone's mind was joined when the report on "State and Associational Missions" was brought to the floor. Even the committee itself was divided. It set two reports before the body. The majority report was prepared by Elders I.F. Welch, J.B. Thomas, and Bro. J.J. Smith. All three of these men were from Landmark churches and held strong Landmark views. Welch and Thomas were outspoken leaders in the Association and the former had been a member of the Arkansas General Assembly. He was a member of the pio-neer Welch family and had long been associated with the Bethel Church at Glenwood. Their report stated, in part, that the Association strongly supported the Landmark attempts to reform the Arkansas State Convention. Moreover, it proposed that the Association's delegates to the Convention be instructed to vote for these "reforms" at Paragould. The minority report was introduced by Bro. J.T. Howell, a Convention supporter. It opposed all Landmark attempts at reformation and advocated Convention business as usual. The vote was taken and the majority report was adopted.

Bro. Copeland was also chosen as one of the Association's delegates to the Convention and as the Association's representative on the State Mission Board. As has been seen, he was the moving force behind the failed Landmark reform at Paragould. After a few months, because of this role, Convention forces within the Red River Association tried to remove him from his seat on the State Board. "I will not resign," he wrote to Dr. Clark, because "the ... Association elected me ... and to them and them only, (do) I owe allegiance." "Whither are we drifting?" he asked, "with (this) assumed authority by the (Convention's Mission) Boards; how long will it be until the churches (themselves) are stripped and divested of any authority at all."

Unfortunately for the Landmark cause within the Red River Association, both Copeland and Welch moved to Texas before the 1902 session. The Landmark forces were never again able to muster a majority within this body. In 1902, the Convention element, over very strong Landmark objection, managed to get a resolution favoring the new State Association withdrawn. They then presented what would be the standard Convention compromise in the face of the Landmarker's demands for "reform." It was a resolution favoring the State Convention, but allowing each individual church to cooperate with either state body, or both, as it saw fit. In 1903 a pro-convention mission report was presented to the Association that stressed that the Convention had no "authoritative jurisdiction over the churches." It urged the churches not to use the "State missions questions" to disrupt the fellowship of the Association; since, as the report put it, there was no "fundamental Bible doctrine" in question. Sadly, convention supporters were never able to grasp the fact that the questions of church equality and Convention sovereignty were indeed "fundamental Bible doctrines" to those holding Landmark views.

Murfreeseboro, AR 71958
Dear Mrs. Partain:

Greatly appreciate you responding to my query concerning my great-grandfather Thomas Stallcup, being in the Pike County area in the late 1830's. My interest in Thomas Stallcup includes the history of the man and would therefore like to know as much of the details as possible concerning his migration to Pike County and his stay in the area. As land acquisition usually was involved in such migrations, I would like to know of any history of Pike County in the late 1830's that would have played a roll in getting Thomas Stallcup to the area. It should be noted that he was apparently preceded to the area by his cousin Pleasant Stallcup.

Thomas Stallcup is believed to have been born in Sumner County, Tennessee in ca. 1816. In 1830 his father George Stallcup moved about half of his immediate family, including married children, to the area at what is now Independence, Missouri. In about 1839, most of the Stallcup family that had migrated from Tennessee again moved; this time they selected Taney County Missouri as their new home. Taney County is better known today as the location of Branson, Missouri. The Stallcup family prospered in that location and descendants of the original family still live in the area. Until just recently, I always thought that Thomas Stallcup moved from Tennessee with his father and the other family members to Missouri. Finding him in Pike County in the late 1830's with a first cousin from Sumner County, Tennessee has made me question that original theory. Thomas Stallcup did have a considerable family that remained in Sumner Co. after his father's move to Missouri and may have elected to stay in Tennessee with them.

From the Arkansas 1830-39 Tax Lists by Ronald Vern Jackson, a Pleasant Stallcup is listed on the Pike Co., Arkansas Territory tax list for 1836, a Pleasant Stallcup is listed on the Pike Co, Arkansas 1838 tax list, and Thomas Stallcup is on the Pike Co., Arkansas tax list for 1839. From The Stallcup Family History 1641-1986 by Earl E. Jones, Pleasant Stallcup (ID no. 462) married Dovey A.M. Roney in Sumner Co., Tennessee on 15 April 1829 and was found in Arkansas in the 1836 thru 1844 time period. Pleasant Stallcup is also referenced as being the son of John Stallcup (ID no. 205) while Thomas Stallcup (ID no. 456) has been established as the son of George Stallcup (ID no. 204). George and John Stallcup are identified as being brothers and the sons of Tobias Stallcup (ID no. 128). Thomas and Pleasant Stallcup were therefore first-cousins and lived in the same area of Tennessee until at least the time that George Stallcup moved his family to western Missouri in 1830. Thomas Stallcup is identified as being in Washington Co., Arkansas in 1840 by the U.S. census taken that year and having a wife and one child. His wife was Emily (Pelham) the eldest daughter of William and Nancy Pelham. By 1842, Thomas Stallcup moved his family to north Texas area and obtained land through the Peters Colony. He was in the Collin County, Texas area when it was formed in 1846 and was one of the first County Commissioners and a Justice of the Peace.

A copy of my five generation pedigree chart is enclosed for your information. Your assistance in this search would most certainly be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

H.H. Cunningham, Jr.

Dear Mr. Kelley,

My grandmother Florence Jane (Robbins) married William Claude Morris. They had twelve children. While they lived in Pike County near Delight, my aunt Eula who was about seven danced in a medicine show with a seven foot defanged rattlesnake. The story goes something like this:

George Harrington, owner of a wagon and team was about 42 years old. He had a trunk full of chains, a cat-of-nine-tails, balls and chains from a road gang and such instruments to confine prisoners. He was called "Little George" and he had postcards and advertising posters printed out for shows around Hope, Delight, and the surrounding areas. Little George went from place to place and put on shows to prevent young people from getting into trouble with the law. My grandfather, William C., brought him home with him after one such show and Little George taught my aunt Eula to do a hurdy-gurdy dance with a rattlesnake. He had taken a chicken spur and made himself a horned rattler. He would go to carnivals and have candy, popcorn and such for sale, give his spiel on staying out of the criminal ways of life and sell his goodies. They went to schools, too. Little George would take out the rattler and coil it at aunt Eula's feet and when the music started, the snake would crawl over Eula while she did "her waltz" holding the snake.

Her last show was in an auditorium in Delight, but she doesn't remember the year. Grandmother, Florence, had a postcard, but it was destroyed when their home burned in 1936. Aunt Eula told us this story at the Memorial Day Morris-Houk Reunion. She will be 84 in October of this year.

The purpose of my tale is to obtain a copy or original of the postcard or the handbill from advertising this medicine show. Aunt Eula made the remark that she would "dearly love to have one." I can't think of a nicer present. Can you help me find one?

Dear Taylor,

Received your letter a few days ago and will send you the information soon, but do not have very much. Uncle Dan Cloud had the family Bible ...

They lived in Altona when Uncle Dan died and I was told that some of the tribe burned this Bible. You could write the P.M. at Altona, Mo. and find out if any of them are still living. Bro(s). Ed & Billie visited Uncle Dan in Mo. and got the information that Wilma gave you. We have a cousin at Hope, Ark. that I can get some information from and will send it to you.

We are having awful hot weather just now. I will give you all the assistance I can.

Love for all,

Auntie

Dear Mr. Kelley,

In the Pike County, Ark. Marriages 1821-1895 Restoration Project, I found my great grandparents, William Cantrell (and) Nancy (unknown) 1876.

All the census records I have found show his name to be: William E. Cantrell and her name was Nan-cy M. Killian.

I did get a death certificate on their daughter & it shows Nancy's maiden name as Killian. I haven't gotten around to researching the Killian line yet.

Sincerely,

Christine Coleman

P.S. I'm searching for Mitchell, Cantrell, James, Tackett, & Gregory. I've found lots of "cousins" in Pike County.

Swytcer, Switzer, Swatser Margaret Swytcer (maiden name unknown) had two boys by her first marriage. In 1848 Margaret married R.G. Chamberlain and in the 1860 census R.G. and Margaret with children Noah, Lafayette, Thomas, Ema, (also William and Josiah Swytcer) were living in Saline Township, Columbus, Hempstead County, Ark. Need information on the Chamberlain and Swytcer family and where they are buried.

David:

I was looking for information on my grandmother Mede (or Almedia) Blackwood married to B.F. Barentine tenth child of Alexander and Tabitha Barentine. I have seen the book by Faye Campbell Stone on microfiche. The only mention of B.F. was the 2 Blackwood ladies he married. None of their children were mentioned. They had nine (6 girls 3 boys). Mede's parents names were John & Lizzie Blackwood. Lizzie's maiden name was Cantrell, born 1861, Center Point, Ark. Also! I have been looking for my Dad's father, Newton on my Dad's birth certificate, Nathan on his (Dad's) brother's birth certificate, Maddox, middle initial H. My Dad was born in 1897 in Driggs, Ark. Mother's maiden name Jennie Driggs. Newton & Jennie divorced in 1900. I have no idea who Newton or Nathan's mother & father were. Newton (Maddox) was born in 1860. I have checked the LDS (records) and the Federal Center Archives, found nothing. Any info would be greatly appreciated.

Orrick Seeking any information about William Orrick born about 1874 in Arkansas and married Ada (?) by 1906. They are on the 1910 Atoka County, Oklahoma census: had William born ca 1906 and Samuel born ca 1910 both in Oklahoma. On the 1920 McCurtain Co., Oklahoma census they also had twins Ida Victoria and Ada born 11 March 1911 in Texas. The story is that wife Ada left taking the twins, but put them in an orphanage. William Orrick Sr. located them and took them back. Ada is missing in the 1920 census. Their daughter Ida was married in Georgia in 1930. Are these people connected with the Pike and Crawford County, Arkansas people?

Green, Dobbs, McCoy, Tanner, Emberton I am researching the Ed Green born ca. 1855 family. I found him in the 1880 Fulton County, Arkansas census with a wife, Adis, possibly Thadis, and a son Thomas who was one year old. The 1900 Sequoyah County, Oklahoma census listed Ed and the children. From this census and family know-ledge we have the following information: Thomas was born in 1879. Dora was born in 1880. She married Hugh Dobbs. They had a large family and resided in Sequoyah County, Oklahoma. Nettie was born in 1882 and married John Kemsey McCoy. Cora was born in 1885. She married Melvin Tanner and had at least three children: Floyd, Tellissa, and Aretta. Walter was born in 1887 and married Annie Emberton. They had eight children. He was my grandfather. Lenard was born in 1892 and may have married Gertrude Williams and/or Florence Spears. Thomas and Lenard we think moved to the Bakersfield, California area, we don't know when.

Lawson I am searching for information pertaining to Daniel (possibly John Daniel) Lawson, a Pike County resident prior to 1870; we believe he served as a county Justice of the Peace. Family tradition says he performed marriages separate of his farming duties. There are frequent journal entries of a son who describes Confederate soldiers stopping by for food and water. His family moved to Ellis County, Texas, we suspect with a brother, where his destitute wife raised seven children.

Pike County Public Library
Murfreeseboro, Arkansas

I am writing this letter in the hope that someone might be able to assist me. I have been researching my family history and was hoping that you might be able to forward this letter to a representative of your local history society.

While looking through some Soundex and census records for Arkansas I discovered that one of my ancestors was living in Pike County, Arkansas in 1900. His name was Levi Gossett and his wife's name was Annie Gossett with their son-in-law and daughter, Taylor Fugitt and Sarah D. Gossett Tipton Fugitt, in Thompson Township. I was wondering whether or not your local historical society had any information concerning either of these families. I am primarily concerned with any information that I can find on Levi and Annie Gossett such as death dates ... perhaps ... cemetery and / or court records that might reveal a death date. Levi Gossett was my direct ancestor but we have very little information on him ...

Sincerely,

Catherine Poulson Rogers

Dear Editors:

I want to get a letter in an issue sometime concerning the Pounds Keith Dairy. I understand it was in Glenwood, Arkansas. There is a copy of the picture on file at Old Washington. The phone number on the wagon is 130. I would like to know more about it and also to find a milk bottle with the name of Pounds and Keith on it. I have been looking. Lost Cemetery

Do you have information about a cemetery supposed to be near the Little Missouri river (Kelley Crossing) where the Murfreeseboro gravel pit is now located and at a low water bridge toward College Hill cemetery (forks of river) vicinity. There were several graves that had been "leveled" including those for Stephen N.C. and Cordelia Frances (Oliver) Kelley and John W. and Lucinda J. (Coker) Oliver. Please contact PCAHS c/o Dorothy Kennedy Partain, Box 238, Murfreeseboro, AR 71958.

ARCHIVE UPDATE

It is time to renew dues for 1996! Please note page 39. The annual membership application form has been modified allowing more space for surnames and for additional information about your family genealogy and research. Also note the volume number is now printed along with the page number at the bottom of each page: for example 7-36 is volume 7 page 36.

We need help annotating the new Cemetery Book underway by Cindy Scott. It is the older markers & graves we need the most help with. Jim Smedley has completed a remarkable restoration of the Kimberly Cemetery near Murfreesboro and has re-covered some of the original tombstones.

The PCAHS members at our January 4, 1996 meeting voted to extend the number of pages for each issue of THE GEMS from 20 to 40! PCAHS voiced the opinion it should carry the additional expense of postage and printing for the entire year 1996 and will accept donations. We will decide later in the year for raising the dues for 1997 and welcome suggestions from our members outside of Pike County.

Pike County Arkansas Marriages 1821-1895

Computer Software Release Update

A computer software release update of the Pike County Arkansas Marriages 1821-1895 from the Pike County, Arkansas marriage restoration project is available for IBM personal computers or compatibles. $29 postpaid.

Order from David L. Kelley, P.O. Box 1135, Salt Lake City, UT 84110. Specify your diskette size: 3.5 (720K) or 5.25 (360K). For those who already have the previous release 09/30/94 of these marriage records an update can be sent to you at no charge by sending a blank disk. There have been several additions, some corrections, and an enhancement of several entries.

The first set of marriage records for Pike County, Arkansas (1834-1855) were destroyed by fire with all the county records in the county clerk's office on Tuesday evening February 13, 1855. Also de-destroyed was the law library of Abner Bryson Williams attorney "which had but a few days previous been moved into" the county clerk's office. William R. McFarlin was the Pike County clerk. The second set of marriage records (1855-1895) were lost with all the county records during the complete destruction of the Pike County court-house & Pike County Courier newspaper office by fire March 1895. J.C. Hughes was the Pike County clerk. Both fires believed to have been by arson.

David L. Kelley

THIRTY-TWO YEARS AGO

Thirty-two years ago tomorrow the Pike County court house and the Pike County Courier were destroyed by fire. No insurance was carried by either - all a total loss, including the public records of the county. If we are correct in our memory, cotton was worth about 4 cents per pound and remained at near this price for two years thereafter. Corn was scarcely saleable from the fact that no money was here to buy it. Common labor was 50 cents and skilled labor 75 cents per day. Best sugar was about 20 lbs. to the dollar, coffee 10 lbs., sack of flour 40 cts., and a good suit of clothes could be bought for $5.

Confederate Vet. Home Destroyed By Fire

The home of Giles Kelley of Delight burned last Monday entailing a loss of about $2500. There was no insurance. Mr. Kelley is 82 years of age and the father of 17 children and a Confederate veteran. His wife and one daughter were at home at the time and he was working in a nearby field. It is thought the fire caught from the kitchen flue. It was on his farm that three test wells for oil have been drilled during the past 10 years. All his money which was in a trunk was lost. Help arrived too late to save any household goods.

Pike County Courier, Volume 41, Number 29, July 18, 1930, page 1, column 5, item 1.
